Anil Chawla, Food chemist Charu Jagota is overjoyed, but this happiness is short-lived as she must break up with Anil to be with Dev, her boyfriend. Now Charu must make a choice - whose happiness is more important to her? After she makes her decision to be with Dev, Charu has to find herself again and win the man she loves back. This story takes the reader on an emotional rollercoaster ride in which you will love and hate, you will laugh and cry. You will be relieved and infuriated. And you will feel the struggle of one lost soul trying to find her way back to the light. The beautiful letters, the flirty innuendos, and the drama will entice you to read more. The story is full of joy and sorrow, it touches on the themes of confusion and need, of the value of true love and friendship. It is also a refreshing and addictive read that is entertaining and thoughtful all at once. 5

And the first question is: How do you feel about Bill? I would say the answer is: I feel Good! I think it's more than just a friendship for Bill and I. We have been through a lot together. A lot has happened in our lives. We have experienced loss. So, we have grown together. And that is the most important thing. We are very close, very honest and open with each other. We have been through a lot together and I feel very close to him. I've known him since I was 17. He is a very special person. He is a very, very special person. 2. ——— I don't think we have a direct connection. I think it's more of an emotional connection. I feel very good, very happy. She is a very special person. I think I would be a very lucky girl. She is a lovely person. I think she's really sweet. 4. ——— I have no idea. I've known him for the past three or four years. He is a very, very special person. It's more of an emotional connection for me. I think I am very fortunate. He is a special person. I have known him for the past four years. We have talked about many, many things. We know we are in love. We don't have a physical connection. He is a
